Braves Start Scoring Home Run Hitters Early and Carry Off Honors by Score of 16-5

By Charles A. Taylor After their disastrous trip through the West, the Giant's disappointed the home fans by their frightful showing when submitting to an inglorious de-feat, 16 to 5, yesterday on the Polo Grounds. The Boston Braves were Grounds. The Boston Braves were the winning end.

The home run program was all at the expense of Art Nehf. The relief chers afforded no help. Nicholson, chel and Gowdy tore off home runs if Nehf when they were not needed.
The big inning for the Braves, who can eleven out of seventeen games on hir western trip, was the sixth when even runs were registered by the sitors before the end came.

Johnny Monroe, who was installed at second base, made two errors that assisted the visitors. Nehf replaced Jess Barnes and he was overwhelmed with a fusilade of bingles.

Both Busy in First Inning

Both Busy in First Inning The first inning was a busy session for both nines. The Braves banged Benton blatantly for two runs, and the Giants mauled McQuillan for four tallies. The deeds of the Braves may be recorded as follows:

Monroe allowed Burns's relay to get away from him.

Boeckel forced Nicholson at second on a mean rap to Frisch, who made a thrilling stop. Holks kept up the bombarding of Benton with a single to right, but Ford fanned.

As for the doings of the Giants in the initial act, they did even more damage than their rivals and waited until two men were out to do it. Frisch afforded the opening with a single to center. Young followed with a triple off the right field wall which scored the Fordham Flash. Kelly doubled over Holke's head and Young counted. Honey Walker tripled to left center, tallying Kelly. Monroe walked. Smith hit safely to right, scoring Walker and putting Monroe on third. Benton ended the storm for McQuillan by grounding out, Ford to Holke.

Tie Up Game in Fifth

In the second inning the Braves reduced the Giants' lead by one run. There were two out when Powell singled to center and scored on Barbare's triple to right center. Southworth led off with a single and went to second on Nicholson's sacrifice. Boeckel popped to Baneroft, but Monroe allowed Holke's smash to get through him and Southworth crossed the plate. Holke was out stealing, Monroe talking the throw.

Two wonderful fielding stunts saved Benton from worse punishment than he received in the opening inning. In the first place Ross Young made a shoestring catch of Barbare's hot liner, and southworth crossed the plate. Holke was out stealing, Monroe talking the throw.

Bambino Held To Mere Single In Nine Tries

Beaneaters, Playing Rings Around Hugmen, Win 1st, 8 to 3, and Second, 6 to 1

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
BOSTON, June 21.—The New York Yankees lost both games of a double header to the Boston Red Sox this afternoon at Fenway Park by scores of 8 to 3 and 6 to 1, respectively. The Yankees were consistently outplayed throughout. They could not hit in the pinches and could not prevent the Sox from making their drives at times when most good was to be accomplished.

most good was to be accomplished.

Babe Ruth was not in a hitting mood, which may account for the failure of the Yankees. The Bambino had five cracks at Pennock in the first contest, but could not get the ball out of the infileld. Nor did he solve the delivery of Bullet Joe Bush until the ninth frame of the sunset contest. Then he singled to center. Even this was no incentive, for Frank Baker followed by hitting into a double play. It was Babe, however, who turned in the one thrilling feat for the Yankees that had the worth of merit in it. In the seventh inning of the final game John Collins cracked one into right center on a dead line, billed for the fences as sure as fate and the income tax. Ruth, however, was off in full flight and with his back to the stands he turned his glove and snagged the ball. The fans gave him a great hand for that catch. for that catch.

Ponnock Twirls Cleverly

Herbert Pennock pitched a clever, cunning game for all that he was touched for ten hits. After the second inning he ruled the roost with firm hand and the Yanks bowed to his will. As for Bush he allowed only five hits, and with a fair break in the luck would have twirled shutout ball.

In the first frame Hawks singled to center, but Leibold made a bold attempt for a sheestring catch. He lost the chance and Hawks toured the paths, touching every base.

chance and Hawks toured the paths, touching every base.

The first game of the double-header was a dismal, doleful affair. It was a walkover for the Sox, to begin with, and it was as colorless as water. Two hands were down in the opening frame when Mike Menosky hit a low liner through the infield that went for a base hit. Pratt rolled one down to Ward that was moving along at express Ward that was moving along at express train speed, and Wardie, hurrying his throw, was off in his direction. Stuffy throw, was off in his direction. Stuffy McInnis picked out this moment for a two-base hit, cleaning the bases and establishing the Sox in the lead.

The Yankees became aggressive in the second and tied the score for just a couple of minutes. With one out Pipp bounced a base hit down to Del Pratt. In a trice base hits by Ward and Hoffmann rang out, and these were and Hoffmann rang out, and these were followed by passes to Roth and Peck, the combination being good for two runs. With the bases filled and two out in this frame Babe Ruth came up M. Washburn, Davis Cup player ar and rolled the ball down to Pratt, who Summer suits. POINT TWO!

Former prices were based on current replacement costs - we couldn't duplicate them to-day for less.

Lopping off $10 or more therefore makes the saving doubly attractive.

Nearly all our suits of finest quality are included ROGERS PEET COMPANY
